
Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build
Posted by Robert on Fri, 20 Mar 2009 16:27:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by dnafe on Fri, 20 Mar 2009 23:20:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by Tom Bruhl on Sat, 21 Mar 2009 07:28:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by mikeaudet on Sat, 21 Mar 2009 12:50:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by tonehouse on Sat, 21 Mar 2009 16:00:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by kerryg on Sat, 21 Mar 2009 16:42:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build Posted by tonehouse on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 01:38:01 GMT

ot only the CD itself but the "home"
>drive. Of course, select the OSX drive and hit the continue arrow/icon.
That >should do it. (NOTE: This will not work with more than one system installed >than one drive/CD volume, etc.)

>
>I hope this helps. Good luck and let us know how things work out. (I also >agree with some other poster here that reformatting the drive and loading >both OS9 and OSX would be the very best thing to do in any case. Again, just >be sure to set it up as OS9-bootable [from Disk Utility on the Install CD] >or the drive will only see OSX when you're finished. Anyway, you might as >well have a clean computer to start out with, IMO.)
>
>Cheers,
>Larry Hogan
>
>
>
>
>Gantt Kushner <gizmo@his.com> wrote:
>>You can also t at both locations.

There was a beta version of XP screen of my paris >>> computer.
>>> That way I can have the C16 and a silent laptop in the tracking room so > I >>> can control the Paris PC in the control room remotely. All I need to be >>> able >>> to see is the screen - I don't need to actually be able to control it
>
>
>>> (though >>> that might be a bonus), since the C16 will do everything (I'm hesitant > to >>> use the c16 alone blind!). I know networking a Paris PC isn't ideal, >>> but...
>>>
>>>
>>> Thanks
>>> Dan
>>
>>
>"michael bliss" <

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by Deej on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 02:36:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Again, just

be sure to set it up as OS9-bootable [from Disk Utility on the Install CD] or the drive will only see OSX when you're finished. Anyway, you might as well have a clean computer to start out with, IMO.)

Cheers,
Larry Hogan

Gantt Kushner <gizmo@his.com> wrote:

>You can also try holding thegt; in this thing. Is there another way to do it?

>>

>> thanks, oh knowlegdeable ones.

>>

>> -steve the hog wild artguy

>Oops. I've also heard that holding down the "X" key during startup will force OSX to load from whatever available systems are on your Mac. I've never tried it out, but there's another method for filing away for potential emergencies...

Cheers again,
Larry Hogan

"Larry Hogan" <ooglybong@nycap.rr.com> wrote:

>

>Hi, Steve,

>

>Holding the mouse down won't work if the Mac wants to boot from it.

>

>Cold boot and hold down the Option key all through the start-up process.

>You should soon be presented with two or three icons of whatever available

Subject: OT! - Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by Gantt Kushner on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 05:08:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

talk to you about this mac/XTC/midi stuff. I have all the parts

>(I think) but haven't ever figured out how to get them to work together.

>I have the midi thing kinda happening with my XP machine, but I still find >myself going back and using the Atari...!

>
>-steve
>
>oh, and yes, dj is the bomb...Whenever I use the Chuck Duffy Pseudo Stereo plug-in, either as an aux effect or a global one, it sounds nice but totally overloads the left channel. The left side starts clipping, regardless of where I pan anything. If I mix down, the left file is huge, while the right side is normal.

Any explanations / solutions are welcome. Thanks!!!

ChrisWithout Kim, I would die.

"Rob Arsenault" <

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by dnafe on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 10:40:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> >Scandinavians were a bit aloof from the rest of the Europeans and Americans.
> >The Texans weren't really considered to be Americans by the Europeans or > the > >Mexicans and got along better with the Mexicans than with anyone else there.
> >There were lots of other things like this that they were noticing. The > >really telling thing about it all was that every nationality eventually > >en

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by tonehouse on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 15:40:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ded up at their own posada (sort of like an outdoor hotel on the beach).
> >There was the German, French, Spanish, Swiss, American.....etc. posada.
> >Just like all of these people who were willing to pay lip service to the > >idea of one

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by kerryg on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 15:59:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nch and vice versa. The Germans

> >and the Americans got along pretty well, though no one really wanted to > >admit liking the Americans much when Americans weren't around. The Americans > >seemed to have very strange relationships with the Europeans and other > >Americans. Some of the Americans wanted to be liked by the Europeans, lots > >of the Americans wanted everyone to think they were Californians. The

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by dnafe on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 16:07:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

br />

> >The French tourists distrusted the Germans. The Italians and the French > >seemed to be in some sort of competition all the time with each other.

The

> >Quebecois Canadians pretty much hated the Fre

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by kerryg on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 16:28:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

for > >years. wht they were laughing about was the stereotypes they were noticing.

> >

Subject: Re: going for broke with a new computer build

Posted by TC on Sun, 22 Mar 2009 19:40:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

;community of people and a big experiment in socialism. The same problems > >that inevitably doom socialism to failure, were very evident and it was > a > >real eye opener to those among us who thought we could transcend human > >nature for the good of the group. Also the permissiveness and > >non-judgmentalism that was part of this experiment (we call it political > >correctness now) caused a lot of problems. One really funny thing happened > >early on. The Indians who were all part of the big extended family that > ws > >running this place were all laughing like crazy one night at a get together

> >they were having. I could understand their dialect and they had known me

>
