Nice to see you here. I want to tell you that a tune you wrote/recorded/posted to the newsgroup _years ago_ still goes through my head.
I think it was "Dreaming of Francesca" ("...things got real...").

I loved that tune. What album is it on, and how do I buy it? I'm near Toronto.

The piano is heavily advertised, and it's about time that Alliston get some kind of decent performance space.

I'm actually from Tottenham but no-one knows where that is... went to Banting.

I don't know your brother Jim, unless he goes by a different name. There's one Canuck in Franklin, TN, who I've done a lot of consulting for - he's got a Paris rig and absolutely no computer / usenet chops!

Hey Thad,
Cubase SX 2.0 ?

I do have 4.0 but am afraid to install because of the possible problems.

If you have SX you have the Prosoniq Time Factory algorithms built in. =
I think they sound as good as anything and better than most.

by seeing what algos can be chosen in the advanced tab. I'm positive it's in three but that's the last one I wrote about. I'm not sure if Steinaha kept licensing the Prosoniq library.

big issue if I've got a mix happening with lots of stuff patched in, then I reopen the project and my patching is not working and I have to reinvent the wheel.
