I know this doesn't answer your question directly, and my ears are probably one step up from a cow's, BUT, I've been using the 20 bit returns on the MEC for my outboard reverb, and it sounds just fine to me. I don't have an 8out card in my MEC, so I can't even test 20 vs 24 FX routing. I would guess the difference would be pret would be the most obvious candidate, IMHO, because they're very innovative and I know from personal experience have some free software users. I'm not saying they'd make Live free, but that they'd support it on one distro with a set
