this is the first time I've visited the Logic forum. I've had it in the back of my mind to move to a 8 core MAC running Logic.....I think it may just stay in the back of my mind.....along with all of the other things there likewell.....you already know most of it and you don't want to know the rest.

;o)We have them all actually... the missing modules are either being re-fit, or are having new faceplates painted and engraved. Been working on it for a year so far... :-p

David.

Helios works for me in 4.6 and 4.9 with Paris.
The Transient Designer is Righteous.

Yes..I've always been able to use the Helios (except with version 4.7 =
was the version after the Helios [4.6] render was broken..kind of, but =
it works) latency has always stayed the same.

-----=_NextPart_000_00C1_01C841DE.8CFFF930--After I installed the Logic update, the OSX security update, the Quicktime update and the NeoOffice update, I had some strange behavior including a rare crash of Final Cut and display problems in Logic (both reported to Apple). After a reboot things seem to have settled down, Logic is behaving, FCP is editing, and I'm working again. I also installed today's Mainstage update.

BTW, I haven't upgraded to OSX 10.5 yet.

Anyway, DeeJ, fuggetabout it. You're not buying a Mac and neither is Dedic. Just ain't gonna happen, and that's OK.

But if you just want to follow along, here's another Logic forum:

That's weird. I never have to install updates to Windows, but I do get constant notices from Apple about security updates, Quicktime and iTunes updates. ;-)

I recently installed the Nuendo 4 update, a handful of new VSTi's, a new library, and it all just works.

.....hmmm..

LOL. Well, I'll have to get one for my wife. Today it started up with a kernel crash... couldn't even wait until we tried to type and email or search for a file. I don't think we'll be able to limp along with this one much longer - this has to be the longest slowest death of a computer I've ever seen.

I'm thinking an iMac would be great for her (24" models look really nice), but we've also contemplated a MacBook with separate display, but a tower is still an option. I've thought about getting a MacBook pro myself to replace my laptop (which is only used for email, net, OpenOffice, etc) - also to have a Mac in house, but too many other expenses taking precedence for the next few months.

Sorry to hear Apple is falling down on Logic's stability recently. I know it's frustrating. Maybe someone needs to kick Steve in the butt and tell him he's starting to act like Macrosoft.

Dedic

the cure is a reinstall. The trick is to figure out what order to install in and what other software is conflicting with the install. Everybody's got a different setup with different hardware and software. Then again, it could have bugs that have not been worked out yet.

It sucks that people are having problems, however, I'm sure it will get straitened out soon.

You mean Apple has started fixing the problems in MSWindows? How generous of them. ;^)

Apple isn't perfect but I wouldn't fault them for periodic security updates, that's a huge plus IMO.

Heh. I did one of those for Sun, BTW. Tried to find you the youtube link but it looks like they took it down.

But anyway, I'm sure you're not claiming you've never had bugs in Nuendo. :^)

Here's a thread about Cubase to Logic switchers - due to bugs in Cubase.

<http://www.bigbluelounge.com/forums/viewtopic.php?t=41478&sid=7692d585bb8d33984e14bd392346c3e5>

Logic has been "just working" here since they fixed the AU playback problem a few years ago.

Even Logic 8, except for yesterday's incident which appeared to be a temporary systemic problem. Not sure what caused it, one of the updates leaving things in an odd state; a power surge; a bug in Logic, OSX or one of the other apps; or what? But rebooting (which BTW I rarely need to do, this machine has great uptime) seems to have fixed it so far.

When is the wake, should I bring a trombone? :^)

My G4 Power Book has a broken hinge (which I consider to be due to a design fault, they have a beefier mono-hinge in newer Mac laptops). Anyway, it's still kickin' otherwise, but I hope to replace it next month, if a 17" HD version is announced that has LED backlighting or if the rumored new flash-based ultra light laptop seems compelling.

My G5 has been a dependable cruiser.

MacBook Pro is overkill for that. Heck, a MacBook is overkill for that. Unless she intends to run MSWindows on it. ;^)

Whatever you do, wait until after the Macworld Expo keynote on January 15th. It's possible new laptops and towers will be announced.

> Sorry to hear Apple is falling down on Logic's stability recently. I

Maybe so. But AFAIK they still have some of the same development crew for Logic from the old eMagic.

IMO Logic 8 is a big step up from Logic 7 in terms of work flow without killing the power behind Logic. They obviously put some thought into it. The newly included Mainstage is pretty cool, too, as is Waveburner. (The bundling of Soundtrack Pro didn't add anything for me since it's also included with Final Cut.)

There have been two Logic/Waveburner/Mainstage releases in the last four months. Hopefully they will continue the development pace and increase the stability for anyone having problems. From the Logic team's past development performance, that's a reasonable expectation. Especially since any wobbliness is entirely on Apple, they make the computer, the OS and the app. Not much finger pointing can be done to excuse any problems. :^)

This last Logic release included a couple of specific features users have been requesting, so it's encouraging that the developers seem to be listening to the users.

Oh hey, speaking of updates, I just got a notice that Battery 3 was updated. Gotta go try that...

Cheers,
-Jamie

The big differences between Logic 7 and 8 are UI/workflow refinements. Logic 7 is still a powerful program so if the L8 update doesn't work for you, you can report whatever problems you run into and keep using Logic 7 for the time being.

Not really - they just keep updating it so PC users don't know it's really being crippled as a marketing move. ;-) QT works okay, but it still can't run with professional audio cards on the PC side without stuttering audio - video is fine though (Nuendo now supports H.264 which looks great in Nuendo and really low cpu usage, which is nice).

Let me know if you find it - I would like to see your work!

What? Bugs in Nuendo/Cubase? Nah. Never. ;-) Actually N4 is running great - the only problem I found was loading older templates based on past version preferences. The new routing, preferences fully xml compliant now, etc - using an old template would cause weird issues. Once I rebuilt my templates from a blank project in N4, it's working beautifully.

As far as the Cubase crowd (except those here) - never believe anything you read from the Cubase forum, or users there. Most of the bugs there lie between the chair and the mouse. It would be funny if it weren't somewhat bizarre.

> Logic has been "just working" here since they fixed the AU playback problem a few years ago.

That's good to hear - Logic is a great app. It deserves proper support and development.

> Even Logic 8, except for yesterday's incident which appeared to be a temporary systemic problem. Not sure what caused it, one of the updates leaving things in an odd state; a power surge; a bug in Logic, OSX or one of the other apps; or what? But rebooting (which BTW I rarely need to do, this machine has great uptime) seems to have fixed it so far.

I was just giving you a hard time. That happens regardless of platform. The problem isn't Apple or Microsoft, it's that humans design this stuff, and well, it just isn't always perfect.

> When is the wake, should I bring a trombone? :^)

Absolutely. It could be any day, but we're hoping to hold out a little longer. Shame I can't buy a motherboard on Newegg and fix it for $50 - $700 from a Mac shop just isn't worth it compared to getting a much faster machine.

> My G4 Power Book has a broken hinge (which I consider to be due to a design fault, they have a beefier mono-hinge in newer Mac laptops).> Anyway, it's still kickin' otherwise, but I hope to replace it next month, if a 17" HD version is announced that has LED backlighting or if the rumored new flash-based ultra light laptop seems compelling.

I've heard about that from a director I work with - he's chomping at the bit to get one, assuming it could be used for field video work.

> MacBook Pro is overkill for that. Heck, a MacBook is overkill for that.> Unless she intends to run MSWindows on it. ;^)

Actually I'm the one only running email/net/ftp on my laptop - if I got a MacBook Pro it would pull double duty as a farm/fx system since with 2G and a true core2 duo it would fly for that, and give me some variety. It's low on the list though since I don't really need it.

My wife does graphic design/illustration, so the only real need for a faster system and more RAM for her would be just to have a faster system, and if she gets into using raw photos and of course for larger design projects.

That's my thinking too - 1/15? Not too far off. I think your are right - about time for new towers, perhaps with the new Intel chips (45nm?).

> Oh hey, speaking of updates, I just got a notice that Battery 3 was updated. Gotta go try that...

Downloading it now.... I would take you up on Massive, but since I have it in Komplete 5, I don't have a need for a standalone copy at the moment, and only use Massive from time to time (seriously killer synth though).

7 works well enough for what's being done. i have 2 other friends
using logic and depending on the rig each has it's own logic quirks (bugs).

since i don't really do this for a living like i once did it's not that critical anymore

Now that Native Instruments has updated a few more plugins for leopard (as of yesterday), I just have to double check the update status of a few other apps and then order leopard, although I'll probably finish a few in-progress projects before actually installing it. If leopard sucks here I'll let you know.
