
Subject: my sneaker made the news
Posted by justcron on Wed, 13 Jul 2005 22:02:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

inguishable from the Lavry.
>> >> >> > >>
>> >> >> > >>course, buying an

Subject: Re: my sneaker made the news
Posted by Kim on Wed, 13 Jul 2005 23:12:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> >> >
>> >> >> > >>
>> >> >> > >>
>> >> >> > >
>> >> >> > >
>> >> >> > >
>> >> >> >
>> >> >>
>> >> >>
>> >> >
>> >> >
>> >>
>> >
>> >
>>
>>
>>
>

Subject: Re: my sneaker made the news
Posted by Mike CMike Claytor on Thu, 14 Jul 2005 01:19:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ludge for the moment. Maybe you'll get lucky. I will say >> >this.....their >> >> >tech support personnel are all very nice folks. I probably spoke to > all >> >> of >> >> >them when my little fader control thingie went south and tried to >> >> >take

Subject: Re: my sneaker made the news
Posted by Amuse on Thu, 14 Jul 2005 10:34:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> I'm just wondering if any Paris users are session dobro > players. Any advice is appreciated.
>
> George AxonAaron,

It's definitely hit or miss with Behringer. I had a 2442 that never gave me problems. I'm now running a 32 cheannel Eurorack that will consistently lock up if on for over eight hours. All it takes to address it is a power cycle but...QC seems to be elusive to them

JH

Aaron Allen wrote:

> I've had quite good lu
