>Hey all,

Just found this the other day. I think that Paul Westerberg is as good a songwriter as rock'n'roll has ever produced. And yes I include the Beatles.

Here's a link to video of a show they did when they were just getting underway (Tommy Stinson looks like he's 12).

<http://www.twintone.com/video/mats/>

Even at this tender age they were just a little bit more tuneful than their punk/hardcore compatriots, and Westerberg drips scrawny charisma. The closing cover of a Hank Williams tune is, to me, precious. But then again I grew up 90 miles from Minneapolis at precisely this time.

TCB

P.S. Apparently working with Westerberg is a singular pain in the ass, but hell, I don't think Miles Davis was a really nice guy either. Hi Thad,

I can't even remember how many replacements shows I've but I don't think the band can remember as I can.

Did you see them at the Grotto in new haven. Damn what year was that.

chrisl@adkproaudio.com Man, that's better than coffee... Great stuff.

Do you like the Chris Mars solo stuff?

My kid has made "Popular Creeps" practically her high school theme song.

PARIS crashing all the time, but ours never has, no matter how many things we're trying to make it do. And it's still running on the old P-III we installed it on, with Windows '98, a mere 256 mb of RAM, and a whopping 26 gb of hard drive. I think an early version used to lock up if you were in punch record and hit stop before you got to the punch mark, but that was fixed. We're making our second CD on it now, and I'm almost afraid to upgrade the computer. :)

Christianity is splintered into a large number of independent sects
