If only it was PC compatible (Maestro, that is)...

Then there's Symphony with six AD16's for 96 inputs - probably around $25,000 for that size rig - a bit pricey, but it would be a killer rig.

I always thought Apogee was in good with Digidesign. I guess they figured Apple is the new big dog on the block. ;-) Probably a smart move. Even though I don't use a Mac anymore, and Logic sits idle on my PC, I always liked Logic.

My take also was the Mackie and the Dyna's were better but the Truths seemed hard to beat for the $$$. Do they accent the mids? Are you using a sub with them and how do you find the bass response (that always seems to be my problem area)... Thanks again for your help!
