I'm in the process of updating my website & I'll be happy to include any/all of y'all's websites on my "links" page, so e-mail the URL & a description of who you are/what you do, and why the fuck anyone should click through to you lol.

A scant few of you are on here already... check yerselves out & makes sure

NeilBrad, you of course know I migrated over to Cubase a while ago. Currently running SX3 on:

- * Intel Dual-Core 2 x 2.8 Gigger
- * 2 gigs of RAM (off-the-shelf Gateway PC, actually... got a screamin' deal recently on the last of the XP boxes).
- * 2x RME Multifaces
- * But still have Paris & Pulsar cards on a separate PC running WinME - Paris system has 2 EDS cards/MEC/8-in module/ADAT module. The two PC's are ethernetetted together for easy fileswapping.

Thinking about getting a 2nd 8-in module just in case I have a band project come up where I need that Paris convertor sound.

Gang, Brad actually "sold" me my first Paris system - although he did so just as he was leaving Caruso, so when I actually made the purchase, he had already left for greener, "sweeter" pastures.

Neil

(who has probably put Brad's soon-to-be two kids through at least one year of college since he's been at SW, though! lol)

Was that Black Eyed Peas? If so, I soooo don't get the appeal of that group.

Actually, I don't much care for rap in any form.

At least the girl (Fergie?) was holding the mic so as not to make it into a handheld omni, like the dudes in the band who are just too cool for the rest of us.

Rod,
I was having probs because I only installed the drivers. Duh.
I still had no joy with hardware after the clean install though.
I will remove the 442 and see what changes.
