nged when rabin was gone and benjamin netanyahu followed. and boy did he change course. it had been rougher times after rabin had been killed, and from the two options of quickly going back to deescalation or make some "flex muscle" type gestures, he chose the latter, hardly a surprise, that was what he was voted for.
in terms of monopoly,
what followed with netanyahu was more or less a "go back to start" (locate 0 for the tape machine operators).
it took a loong time, a way to long time, until the peace process even restarted.

only this time arafat didnt have the same power.
his people didnt have the same trust. his position was not nearly the same - where before he was more or er would have hit first would have won.

Conversely, if we had hit first out of Fulda, the Soviets would have been backed up to the Weser River; if we had hit first out of Braunschweig, they would have been backed up into the Elbe.

However, everyone knows we wouldn't strike first, therefore probably damn near all of our ground forces would have been killed.

You DO know when they would have done this, don't you? They would have done this:

a.) In August, when most of you guys go on
