ry uncomfortable session moment years back.

I'd been doing quite a few co-productions with Shawn Pierce, a lovely cat and a great producer; I generally handled the musical side and he handled the technical side and we split the difference in the middle.

We had a project where "everything at once, in the same room, with the engineer and producer and all" was a vibe we wanted to experiment with. With ut the cans on one ear. I hear latency, and that's not going to be acceptable".

Although I'd never heard a scrap of latency in PARIS before, I was certainly hearing some "soundcard"-type latency now - not awful but not helpful for tracking, and certainly not what I'd confidently represented PARIS as having. For a sickening minute I was quite convinced that Shawn had simply spotted something that had always been there but that I'd simply never noticed before - something threatening to be a session-stopper - and I was feeling sick to my stomach.

And then the drummer said "Strange, I've got no latency over here", and with curiosity we stepped over towards the drums trailing our headphone cables, and as we got closer the perceived latency dropped in our headphones until sta nding next to the drums it was gone.

Turned out that neither of us had done a ton of "in the room with the band" tracking. Shawn's ears were completely correct, but there was no latency in PARIS; what we hadn't taken into account was the 20 feet of physical separation between the mix position and the drums, which delayed their acoustic sound over by the mixing board. Far from PARIS having latency, the real sound of the drums in the room was arriving later than PARIS' 50-foot-round-trip monitoring; the PARIS signal was arriving on time and we were hearing the latency of the "real world".

The session continued - with new respect for PARIS.

Well, it's been a lot of work, but I think it's pretty much there.

We still need to test out the MTC synch. I put one data lock on it, but I think it needs one more, maybe two. If anyone has a way to test that, I'd really appreciate it. I thought I could sych it to Cakewalk 9, but it only outputs midi clocks.

All the best,

Mike
