I'd like to hear how a government promises opportunity to an individual.

Or do you mean the potential for opportunity? I seem to see much more corporate welfare than welfare for individuals... though strangely conservatives are silent in this, or deny it altogether.

Oliver Stone is also the person who did Natural Born Killers, JFK, Salvador, Wall Street, Alexander, On Any Given Sunday.....varying between downright bizarre to inaccurate to totally one-sided to figmentalist to the extreme and god knows what.....but all entertaining, to be sure. To take this guy as an objective American historian would be like putting Groucho Marx in charge of the American historical archive, but at least Groucho knew better than to take himself so seriously.

They're still in the hole, every year, not a good thing. To make them = legal, handle the cost of such and then have them 'subsidized' for = welfare programs by the gov't isn't good, either. (A hand up needs to be = that and that alone, time limited, and not become a hand out.) That's = just burdon shifting but at least they'd be legal, trackable, and making = efforts to stay within the confines of the law of the land they're = living off of. I think they should be required within a reasonable time =

No no.. I didn't say they weren't contributing at all, I said they're = not contributing their share. How they're paying any SS or wage money? = That's an interesting topic, one we're not likely to get a real solid = internet/papers/tv/interest groups, but it's the best we've got for = right now besides what we see personally.. which is likely to be = with/around enforcement officers from security guards to local, state = whites outnumber blacks in this country 10:1 so that would be expected, but I'm not talk in strictly about blacks or other races here. I think the blacks in this count were sold a bill of good by the white liberal power structure in order to insure that they had a dependable voting base.

I believe you. 99% of the folks I know and hang with who happen to be in the minority racial profile are of similar background. They have an level of acumen that has allowed them to see past the BS..

I agree with you again, but that is changing, I do see distrust and resentment among whites when someone of racial minority is appointed to an administrative position where they have hire/fire capabilities over whites. I also see this when blacks have hire/fire power over hispanics and vice versa. I believe that one reason for this is, based on my experience, is that those in power tend to surround themselves with people whom they consider to be culturally simpatico.

I think that in the white community there is a mindset that for 40 years the same level of education and opportunity has been offered to minorities so that they can learn "the system" because the "system" is what works for the whites. You can argue that this is not correct and you would be right to some degree, but a big part of why is that children in urban public schools often aren't expected to perform at exceptional levels and a welfare system has contributed to the utter destruction of the "family unit". this seems to have happened to urban blacks in disproportionate numbers and that, my friend, is in large part due to Ted Kennedy and "his boys". You don't see inner city youth invited for a romp on the lawn at Hyannis do you? You didn't see chelsea Clinton attending public schools in DC, did you?

Part of the system has been admittedly culturally unfriendly to those who do not play by it's rules. Those rules demand conformity. Even non-conformist whites are left on the outside, but not to the degree that the racial minorities are. However, if someone who is of racial minority proves themselves within this crucible, they gain respect and "equality". Why???....because they are considered part of the solution.

"We all" don't think that at all. I have lived in situations where I was in the racial minority and refused to accept "the system" that worked for those of the majority and I was treated like shit and thrown in jail. I know a bit about this myself.

Yes....and it's not just practiced by whites.

chrisl@adkproaudio.comI'm really disappointed with this drive. I've sent one back for being defective, and now a second one is developing the same problem: it stops reading CDRW and CDROM. What a piece of junk!

Anyone else having issues?

GrahamMy g4 has two internal ata 100 with os 9.22 and osx 10.0 (which i haven't used) on the master drive. So if i installed a current version of osx on the second ata100 drive that would be the best scenario?I then would record to an external firewire 400 drive(ata100 8mb buffer)
Thanks, Eugene

The SPL box is truly wuckin' funderful if you want "easy, quick and effective". If you're into the software stuff (and I'm not knocking it at all.the Voxformer looks really versatile) , Antares has something call AVox that I played with a while back. Excellent results with that. You can build harmony BG vocals and it's got this processor called "throat" which can get just about as wierd as you can imagine.

Think of the "sincere anger" I could lay on LaMont for a bit.
Think of what an in-kind response to him would sound like....

My M.O. is what keeps this from turning into a complete shambles.

Man, you really are clueless sometimes...

It just isn't worth losing your marbles over. After all, it's just 1's and in cyberspace. All of us here have quotes around our names. If we had met in person instead of here, we would all get along fine. We need to remember that.

No one has to agree with LaMont. No one has to agree with me. We should remain civil however and LaMont has failed at that goal. Again.

Another reason we should keep off of politics and religion, or at least banish them to the general list like Kim asked us to.

just a thought

DCWell, what's wrong with this <http://www.waves.com/Content.aspx?id=325> ?!
Can't I just use this? Then I don't have to spend any money. :)
