cribe really unless you hear it. It's almost like adding additional width to the soundstage while rolling off the top end. I know that sorta' describes what some compressors do, but the Cubase summing bus, to my ears, sounds compressed and harsh, lacking clarity, without some pretty major gainstaging work done at many levels. The 5042 takes that cluttered sounding harshness right out of the equation and the bus less crowded/compressed when this is strapped across it.
