flip with any other mobo
that is Paris friendly).

C'mon.....who's gonna step up?

;o)Killer idea!

In great pain my buds were chanting: " Shake it off ! " Riiight.
I realized that was not an option. I dragged my sorry ass=20 onto the stairs that had just accosted me. I begged my friends to get me home which was right across the street.
The leg was hurting alot. My friend Dan decided the best way to cart my 180lb body back to my home was in his cement dust=20 ridden wheelbarrow. I dragged that sorrowful ass of mine up his deadly stairs across the dinning room and into his living room. =20 I couldn't stand the pain to make it ont o his sofa so I remained=20 on the floor. Dan threw my body over his shoulder and gave me the=20 fireman's walk to the unassuming wheelbarrow which was down=20 four stairs outside his front door. =20

After arriving at my house a few painful minutes later, I was given one more fireman's walk inside my home and tossed onto my sofa. This is when my loving wife entered the picture. Her concern for my well being was dwarfed by the humor my friend and I were experiencing at the time. After Dan's qu
