let's see if i got it straight--
i should get a G4 400 to 500 MHZ, AGP not PCI-- (i don't really understand this part) pull out my PARIS card from my G3 and drop it into the G4,
and load my current operating system and go with that.

Will I need new drivers to run PARIS on the G4?

what's the best way then to add a CD burner to my new gear?
Any suggestions as to the model of the new bur ner?

Because the G3 had only a SCSI output, i've had trouble finding a reliable CD burner. I've tried several and had my old Yamaha reburbished and none have been reliable.

is there a way to retrieve my data from the internal Maxtor drive that my present machine no longer recognizes?
This has been a baffling problem for me-- why the Maxtor has gradually failed to show up and now finally is invisible to the G3.

will I be able to add either an internal or external additional hard drive(say the Maxtor, which I don't believe is at fault)?

thanks again-- i appreciate all the suggestions and patience with my ignorance about what is obvious to a lot of you.

Dumb huh?

I don't know when they fixed that, and it may apply to G4's as well.

A FW hub solves it.

Oh, also, B&W G3's will not run a current mac KB and Mouse! They only run the original leetle KB and the silly round mouse that came with them.

Use a USB hub and the current KB's and mice work fine.

DCI thought the mix was good.

I agree with Cujo though, I would like to have heard a little more pre delay on the lead vox and maybe a little more wash on the backing vox.

All in all, a nice mix.

Bare in mind, i'm only listening on "half"decent generic compu
