I'll go ahead and post it up here... I gave it the photoshop treat to = put a certain someone's missing pants back on and hide and that green = stuff that got spilled all over the studio.=20
And DeeJ.. next time man, it's crash the gig and sleep in the band van, =

not crash the band's van after sleeping at the gig.=20 Shesh.

Aaron Allen had the camera and the temerity to take one group photo.

We will see if he has the sense not to post it...

reat Global Warming Swindle". We were hoping for important revelations and final proof that we have all been hornswoggled by the climate Illuminati, but it just repeated the usual specious claims we hear all the time. We feel swindled. Indeed we are not the only ones: Carl Wunsch (who was a surprise addition to the cast) was apparently misled into thinking this was going to be a balanced look at the issues (the producers have a history of doing this), but who found himself put into a very different context indeed [Update: a full letter from Wunsch appears as comment 109 on this post]

So what did they have to say for themselves?

CO2 doesn't match the temperature record over the 20th C. True but not relevant, because it isn't supposed to. The programme spent a long time agonising over what they presented as a sharp temperature fall for 4 decades from 1940 to 1980 (incidentally their graph looks rather odd and may have been carefully selected; on a more usual (and sourced!) plot the "4 decades of cooling" is rather less evident). They presented this as a major flaw in the theory, which is deeply deceptive, because d corrected. New data sets have also been developed that do not show such discrepancies. See-also previous RC posts.

Temperature leads CO2 by 800 years in the ice cores. Not quite as true as they said, but basically correct; however they misinterpret it. The way they said this you would have thought that T and CO2 are anti-correlated; but if you overlay the full 400/800 kyr of ice core record, you can't even see the lag because its so small. The correct interpretation of this is well known: that there is a T-CO2 feedback: see RC again for more.

All the previous parts of the programme were leading up to "so if it isn't CO2, what is it?" to which their answer is "solar". The section was curiously weak, and largely lead by pictures of people on beaches. It was somewhat surprising that they didn't feature Svensmark at all; other stuff we've commented on before. Note that the graph they used as "proof" of the excellent solar-T connection turns out to have some problems: see figure 1c of Damon and Laut.

Along the way the programme ticked off most of the other obligatory skeptic talking points: even down to Medieval English vineyards and that old favourite, volcanoes emitting more CO2 than humans.

It ended with politics, with a segment blaming the lack of African development on the environmental movement. We don't want to get into the politics, but should point out what the programme didn't: that Kyoto exempts developing nations."

Keeping it real is a very good idea. So it's best to look at the science and go from there.

vil guns are gone.
I've never said to take away anybodies guns. Guns are just inanimate objects like knives, clubs, rocks, sticks. Only thing that could possibly be considered "evil" is the person using it.

Not sure what Rap Music has to do with it other than being less violent than country music and rock and roll.

Sounds to me more like the Turner Diaries is more up your ally if you believe this kinda of literature. You should get the video game thats been out for it. You'll get to shoot allot of guns in it.

With out the second you wouldn't have anyone to shoot if they infringed on you 9 other rights. The lack of fair enforcement or of the 3rd to 10th have allot more to do with your need to evoke the 2nd. If the 1st one is infringed upon by anyone then all the rest aren't worth shit anyways. But the first one is the one that anyone in a position of power will more likely to take away because it keeps people from asking questions.

(859) 635-5762 Durango would be good. Summer time would be good. October would be spectacular if you want to watch the light show of the aspens turning around here. It's about as beautiful as anyone could possibly imagine.....plus.....the tourists are gone by then so it's relatively tranquil from a tourist town at that time of year. October is one of my favorite months here. A trip around the million dollar highway loop between here/Silverton/Ouray/Ridgeway/Telluride/Rico/Delores and back to Durango. There are lots of cool goings on in Trlurdie throughout the year as well.....jazz festival, bluegrass festival, blues festival, getshitfacedanddriveoffthesideofa2000footcliff festival.....etc.

the better of them. Nature has ways of dealing with overpopulation. If we don't control it, nature will. No worries.

As far as the 2nd Amendment . . . listen, guns don't kill people, it's the bullets. :)

Besides, the prejudice in what you said is clear. How do you know that someone who questions the current orthodoxy is an anti-environmentalist?

<http://www.independent.org/newsroom/article.asp?id=1945>

The real scary thing for the Gore-ites is the ongoing research into climate change on Mars... It seems to be a parallel to our own. If that is the case, humans are not the cause.
