I mean is -- you boot from the Norton disk, then "re-load image"
-- from where? Where (on cdr or other drive?) is this image stored?

Then -- I guess -- Ghost re-builds system from image and that's when you start smiling, right?

Just haven't been through this yet, and confess I still have some difficulty understanding the process... Scary... But, obviously, worth knowing about...

thanks -- Chas.

I think it's Tranzport. I'm waiting for one.

Transport for Cubase is my app..=20

=20

<http://www.frontierdesign.com/Products/TranzPort/Apps/Cubase>

This bad boy is wireless to boot! I hope it works better than the Motu 8x8 patchbay because it's USB. I got a price of $179.00. Reasonable I think... If it works!

Waiting for the MidiSport 8x8 now. That thing better work.
