I was using one all the time, (and I mean "all the time") when I was using Paris.
I was locking to Digital Betacam for post production, and Paris was the slave...all through a Digi SMPTE slave driver....always worked.

I know firsthand what a hard line that is when doing something you love, but to continue the development man, you gotta get something in return to keep feeling that you want to push forward for your hard work. There is also an issue of respect that things free do not earn.
