>Bush is such a sleazy corporate money whore. Doesn't that make some of you who support the war in Iraq wonder about its validity?

What chaps my ass is when I hear people say, "we can't change the tax code", or "We can't enforce our immigration laws", and "We can't do anything about Social Security running out of money" all that other apathetic BS, yet we have no slightest problem finding the moxy to send an army to Iraq to kill our "enemies" and a lot of other people who probably didn't want to die, while spending $200-300B of our hard earned tax dollars for absolutely nothing of value in return that I can see.

Who gets rich? Bankers, armorers, drug runners (they grow LOTS of opium in Iraq) and the bankers who clean their $. Scam, scam, scam.

Rant over... for now!

Me too.....I hear they are currently getting ready to defend a geneticist who is attempting combine the DNA of Eldridge Cleaver, David Duke, Charles Rust-Tierney and hire the Indigo girls to envitro a cloned sheep with this recipe by using a turkey baster.

It's a free country, dammit!!!

;o)Has anyone tried any of these newer Lexicon boxes (MX500 & MX400) that have USB or FW interfaces that allow them to be used as VST plugins? If so, whaddya think? Do they sound good AND work properly in that application?

NeilThere some humorous stuff in the videos.
