Yes, you are. Do you have the 2GHz processor, =
or the 1.83?

MAC

Um . . . processor?

PC

Uh, never mind. Hey, I like games, too. I = just got a GeForce 7800 GTX graphics card installed.

PC

WOW! I guess I should get my head out of my ass and quit being so ignorant about Macs!

MAC

Ah...yeah! Ignorance is so blissful!

No never, not with my Mac, but that's the kind of shit my PC does on a regular basis though!

..I do believe Apple needs to come down on their pricing, and I've said so here in the past. You get what you pay for though! If you were to compare a Hyundai or a KIA to a Cadillac, you have different pricing structures. The Cadillac has a simulated birds eye maple dash, the KIA has a cheap gray dash.
Do you need a fancy dash?, I don't know but your definitely paying for it in the price of the Cadillac! Do you need a computer with a fancy aluminum alloy case?, I don't know but you are paying for it in the price of the Mac!
Macs also cost more because they are not mass produced in the quantities that PCs are. It's like saying Ferraris suck because they cost five times more than Cadillacs.

There is other tangible and intangible value in the price of a Mac, such as your time, Macs just work! Almost no down time, there's not much time spent on trying to get things to work. What is your time worth? PC guys here are constantly fussing with their PCs, IRQ conflicts, hardware conflicts, .dll file issues, driver issues, malicious code and other headaches. If you want to fuss, cool, but time is money.

I think the Mac drivers are better, and they're built in. No need to go searching for the drivers. The iLife software rocks! Figure about $100.00 a program, and then figure in that they actually work! There is no need for Anti Spyware software, pop up blocking software. The need for anti virus software is minimal, on a PC it is absolutely necessary if you are going on the internet and down loading anything. Viruses still get buy the software on a PC, what does time and lost data cost? On a mac you don't have to be a security administrator. Macs are harder to hack.

The united States Navy, Hues aircraft and Boeing did cost of operation studies in the past. It was something like 6 IT guys per 100 PCs to maintain and administrate. It was 1 IT guy per 100 plus Macs to maintain and administrate. Because of the lower labor costs, the over all costs for business is lower with macs.

So Macs do cost more initially, but that cost is offset by the time saved and the rest of the above mentioned. You get what you pay for!

I think the MacBook is a reasonable deal for what you get.

I'm not saying a Mac is perfect, it just looks that way next to a Windows box!

I like my PCs too, I just know my Macs are better!

I say use what works for you.

OK James. I would be really curious to know if you think you could set up two Macs to work exactly like I've got my PC's working and tell me if everything works perfectly first time. I would be really curious to know. My Paris PC cost me about $500.00. My Native PC cost me around $700.00 (neither price includes montors or audio hardware).

You will need a Mac for Paris (which I assume you've already got) and it will need to have at least a 2G CPU, 1 G of RAM and 4 x video heads.. The Native machine will need to be running Cubase SX and have a dual 2.5G CPU, 4 G RAM, 4 x UAD-1 cards 3 x RME HDSP cards running in two separate Magma chassis' (unless you can somehow cram all of this into a mobo and 1 Magma) and three video heads.

I will admit it took a while to get this working properly on a PC, (properly meaning the exact way I had planned it to work) but it certainly did not put me out of business for one second or lose me any money because I had total control of the OS and I could work around every glitch I encountered until I found the sweet spot. No downtime.....none at all.....just lots of options when I needed them while I configured the system.....and yes, there is some configuration time involved to be sure, but I'm the one doing the configuring rather than having an OS handed to me that has ten tons of crap bundled with it that I'll never use and I'm expected to take or leave. Can you strip this stuff out of Mac OS like you can with Windows? I'm curious.

Regards,

Deej
