Are you sure that pic isn't the conspiracy? If that's showing a damaged WTC-7, and was taken on that day, then why are the streets so empty? Where are all the people & rescue vehicles, etc?

You sure that pic doesn't happen to be one taken earlier time & then Photoshopped??

Seriously - I was hoping to see something interesting there, but the complete absence of any activity on the streets makes me think it can't be 9/11.

Unfortunately, this material diputes the PM article, but does not debunk it because it contains no evidence, only speculation.

I believe the structural guys. The bottom line with conspiracies is that there is no way to ever convince the believers that there was no conspiracy. This goes for Kennedy, Lincoln, WTC7 and the Illuminati, and you name it. You have to believe someone.

I believe the structural engineers.

The PM article and the response article share the same evidence."justcron" <justcron@hydrorecords.compound> wrote:

then why didn't the reposnse article get the details about the fuel oil?

Where it was, how much, where the impacts were, the size of the fire, the way the design of the building affected the collapse etc.

I realize I have an advantage here, knowing someone who was there and knows the details, but I don't they they did their homework before postulating a coverup and conspiracy.

Those details are all in the FEMA report which both articles reference.

I actually read that article in PM when it came out, and only recently tossed that issue in the trash."justcron" <justcron@hydrorecords.compound> wrote:

You know, you're right. I read the book of "Roger and Me" and thought it was about 30% not full of shit. So, cumulatively, adding in his most recent work and averaging, Moore is only 93.4% full of shit.

Kinda like the PM article is only 15% full of shit.

I don't buy that the most protected airspace on earth allowed hijacked airliners to freely fly around for an hour.

airplane headed to the school in an attempt to assassinate Bush because he stayed there for an hour and a half after being told "America is under attack.

I don't believe for a second that every scientific report that said that the Boing 757 that "liquefied" after entering the first 18" of concrete at the Pentagon still had enough structural integrity to go through another 7 feet concrete when passing through the another seven walls. Furthermore, if you believe that, then you would have to believe that the heaviest densest parts of the airplane the two engines and the two landing gears would have

I don't buy for a second that Bush had nothing to hide when he took 411 days to form the 911 commission or that he was hiding anything when agreed to testify in front of the commission only if Cheney was with him and no notes or recordings would be made.

I do believe that the Project for a New American Century, the think tank headed by Cheney, Rumsfeld, Wolfowitz, Pearl and Jeb Bush, Saw a unique opportunity when they wrote before Bush had been elected that"
