Are you using the regular automation or the AnalogX ParisMIDI midi automation on the mini mixer?

hey bill,

yes im still working with her, quite a lot actually, produced the last album, right now we make a whole round of rearrangements for the live shows etc...she plays live very often and has a very stable basis there - good thing to have in these troubled times where people dont buy records. thank god you cant download a live concert ;-))setting aside the "its not going to happen" stuff?

having true multi i/o asio drivers for the MECs would be very cool. i have a lot of paris i/o flying around here, always loved the way they sounded in all their ensoniq-ness and would love to integrated that with my current setup.

>>Sarah,

I totally see what you're saying, and I'm not trying to stifle discussions like that, though if they're OT they should be in the appropriate group mostly, but if we can't talk about what we want, as well as nut things out, whatever it be, then the world would be a lesser place.

But I do need to cater to:

(*) Those who are getting genuinely irritated, or worse.

(*) Those who don't like things too OT

What you're saying is, I think, a lot like Don often points out, that many of us would get along much better if we were actually in a bar somewhere chilling out face to face, than what we sometimes see here, and if they could see your body language and see that you're relaxed and there's no need to get worked up, it would all work much better. Genuine friendship requires honesty though, so we have to find a balance between ensuring that a group exists where things are mostly on topic, as well as ensuring that nobody genuinely gets upset. missed it almost the minute it left here. I think the P1 was equal or superior to the RED7 when paired with an AEA R84 or an SE R-1 (the two ribbons I have used it with). I've got one of the old, much sought after RED7's with the input tranny that are selling for around $4k nowadays and it's a nice one, so this is some high praise. I do agree with you about the P1's lack of personality thought. I guess that's what makes it right for some mics though. You hear the signal and mic and not the pre.

The next preamp I buy will probaly be another P1 to replace the one I sold.

:o)Hi Gantt..I used have a stereo rig back in the 70's .with a Blackface Twin on one pickup,and a Marshall Plexi 50 watt on the other.(both of which I still own) .. I had an Alembic guitar,and it had a stereo XLR output jack..It's alot of trouble ,but it does sound great..I like to use 2 small amps,with a switchbox..Eric Johnson really gets the most killer variety of tones of anybody..he uses 4 amps..2 Deluxe Reverbs,and 2 Plexi 50 watt,with various echoplexes and overdrives...take care, Zan

This things sounds so smooth that it will blow your mind.

You can run two instances per card, and all the DSP power is going to very good use. You just have to hear this.

You can order it at www.ensoniq.ca. I've continued to leave the pricing as "Pay what you can." Please be fair with this if you value these plugins.
