
Subject: Last Call before EBay

Posted by [Deej \[4\]](#) on Mon, 18 Jun 2007 00:24:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

her FS post) to integrate older outboard processors into an 88.2 KHZ environment. they worked perfectly.

These boxes are really the only device of their kind that do what they do for less than a few thousand dollars. One of them has a crack in one of the little plastic windows but works perfectly.

$90.00 each for the four that are in mint condition and $80.00 for the one with the little crack in the window.

These come in the original boxes with manuals and are "like new". they are very handy A/D D/A converter.

They'll be going up on EBay in the next couple of days if no one owants them here.

DJHi,

David,

So what do you have in mind for it ?

Does it have adat card ?

You are looking for direct sale or trade is welcome ?

Let me know what you think.

Regards,

Dimitrios

"David L" <david@revealaudio.com> wrote:

>I've got an O1v here that I'm not using any more
