3. In combination with the Soundscape Editor, you can run any other PC-based >Audio package. Through the Soundscape drivers (ASIO2, WDM, MME, GSIF2, Dwave) >all of these packages will "see" 48 audio streams In & Out of the Soundscape >mixer. All packages see all these streams through their own driv

>Lamont,

It is my understanding from Fairlight that the CC-1 is not yet integrated with any other DAW software or plugins. It is currently only sold with the SX20 interface and Satellite AV controller with no plans to separate them. You would have to run their editor to use any of the plugins and stream other apps into it as audio streams - as you would with rewiring Reason into Nuendo. While that is great for post houses that only need a few features from the native DAW, Reason, or other plugins, to me it has yet to materialize into a fully integrated solution for music production (e.g. Nuendo or other DAWs and plugins being developed to run all or part of the audio streaming through the CC-1, at least some key VST plugins ported to run locally on the CC-1 dsp, and the CC-1 being sold standalone).

This is one I've been watching for a while and that's what I've been told by a Fairlight rep. That may be exactly what you need, but for me it needs buy from 3rd party companies to be a viable addition to my setup.

Regards,
Dedric

>Howdy.

Last time I raised my head Fairlight was famous for the CMI sampler back in the '80s. Now I hear they've been selling AV workstations for years now. I'm surprised I had never run across this sort of stuff, as I have been active in various online forums for years.

Anybody got a short run-down on the basics? How many workstations have they sold? Who's using them? How robust are they financially? Do they have a chance in hell of denting the DAW market?
